DUGGAN WAS SHOT FIRST IN THE ARM

Pathologist's evidence at inquest contradicts that of police marksman V53

A PATHOLOGIST who examined Mark Duggan's body told an inquest into the 29-year-old's death that the police marksman who shot him was "wrong" when he said he hit his body first.

Speaking at the Royal Courts of Justice on Thursday, Professor Derrick Pounder, who carried out a second post-mortem on Mr Duggan, said: "My conclusion is the first shot, the non-fatal shot, was to the arm and the second shot, the fatal shot, was to the chest."

That contradicts what the police marksman, known as V53, told the inquest.

Mr Duggan, right, was shot in Ferry Lane, Tottenham, in August 2011 after the minicab in which he was travelling was stopped by armed police.

The inquest has heard that police believed Mr Duggan was armed and threw away a gun which he was holding – the firearm was found about 14 metres from his body.

But Professor Pounder said that it was "not very likely" Mr Duggan could have thrown a gun that far.

Yesterday the inquest was read a statement by Mr Duggan's partner of 13 years, Semone Wilson, who confirmed that she had identified his body.

The inquest continues.

New picture: Zohar with his most recent portrait of Diana and, inset, with the princess in 1990

Artist: my time with Diana

AN artist has produced a new portrait of Princess Diana which aims to show the woman behind the public persona.

Israel Zohar, who was born in Kazakhstan in 1945 and now lives in Highgate, was originally commissioned to paint a portrait of the then 28-year-old princess in 1990.

The painting, commissioned by the Royal Hussars military regiment, depicts Diana wearing an off-the-shoulder midnight blue Victor Edelstein gown first seen when she famously danced with John Travolta at the White House in 1986.

Now, using photographs taken at the time of the original portrait-painting session, the 68-year-old has produced a new portrait of the princess, who died in a car crash in Paris in 1997.

The artist, who refers to himself as just Zohar, said: "When I started the portrait, I almost did it for the challenge, but it became a much more interesting journey than I expected. I realised I had an image of what I wanted to put on canvas and it brought me back to the original portrait in a very vivid way."

That original portrait was one of just 12 of the late princess commissioned during her time married to Prince Charles. The couple divorced in 1996.

Zohar, who has worked as a private tutor since moving to north London from Jerusalem, in Israel, in 1986, said the memories of the original sitting helped him produce the new portrait.

He said: "The memories tucked away in my mind resurfaced and I found myself taking a journey into her character where she came back to life through the portrait."

"I responded to her new presence and the painting started to reveal itself. At the end I got this sensitive and almost sad image but at the same time so positive of her personality, which took me by surprise."

Despite Diana being a member of the Royal Family when he painted her, Zohar said she was very down-to-earth.

He added: "When I met her, I didn't feel I was with somebody who thought she was above me. She was so direct, so friendly and sincerely interested in what anyone had to say and within minutes she would get to the bottom of what you said, reflect on it and react to it."

Teenagers stabbed outside college

THREE students were stabbed during a dispute over a stolen bicycle.

The teenagers were attacked outside Haringey Sixth Form Centre, in White Hart Lane, on Thursday lunchtime.

Paramedics and an air ambulance attended and the teenagers were taken to hospital suffering from stab wounds. Their injuries were said to be "non-life-threatening" and the three have all since been released.

Police are investigating the incident, which is thought to have also involved two teenagers who are not students at the sixth form centre.

On Friday, the college was offering counselling to anyone affected.

No arrests have been made and anyone with information can call police on 101 or Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555 111.

Tennis funding boost

HARINGEY Council has been handed a grant of £21,700 to boost the amount of people playing tennis in the borough.

The cash, from the Barclays Spaces for Sports scheme, will be put towards paying for a tennis development officer employed by the Tottenham Hotspur Foundation, plus connecting a water supply to the White Hart Lane Sports Centre pavilion.

This will enable toilets to be built at the Tottenham venue, as well as allowing it to raise extra income through refreshment sales.

How the story has unfolded: Front pages from the Enfield Advertiser and Enfield Gazette in 2007 and from the Advertiser in 2009 and 2010 reveal the long battle to try and save maternity and accident and emergency services at Chase Farm Hospital, in the Ridgeway, Enfield

I would have lost my finger, says electrician rushed to hospital

On the mend: David Burrows

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

AN electrician who was rushed to Chase Farm Hospital's accident and emergency department after lacerating his hand has expressed his gratitude to the staff who saved his finger.

David Burrows, owner of David Burrows Electrical Ltd, in Chase Side, Enfield – a short drive from the hospital, in The Ridgeway, Enfield – was 20 feet above the ground carrying out essential work on a lamppost when the electrical grinder he was using slipped and tore a deep gash in his finger.

With blood streaming from the wound, his partner rushed him to Chase Farm around the corner.

Within 15 minutes he was appraised and within half an hour a doctor had inspected the wound.

And before an hour had elapsed, Mr

Saved by A&E at Chase Farm

Burrows was having surgery to sew up the deep wound in his hand.

"I was home by 6pm that night," he told the Advertiser.

Expressing his gratitude, he added: "I would like to thank all the staff at A&E for their wonderful attentive care in saving my finger in A&E, I want to give my utter thanks to all the staff there."

But with all emergency services at the hospital due to shut in less than three weeks' time on December 9, Mr

Burrows admitted that had he been forced to make the longer journey to North Middlesex University Hospital, in Sterling Way, Edmonton, or Barnet Hospital, the outcome might not have been so positive.

"I would have lost my finger," he said. "There is no way I would have got to the hospital there as quickly."

Mr Burrows had the stitches removed on Monday and is set to soon regain full use of his hand.

Drug feud killer gets 31-year jail sentence

Concurrent sentences: Robert Bernard was jailed for 31 years for murder and for ten years for possessing a firearm with intent to endanger life

By Daniel O'Brien

daniel.obrien@nlhnews.co.uk

THE family of a man who was gunned down in a "cold-blooded execution" during a drugs "war" six years ago have spoken of their relief after his killer was jailed for 31 years.

Robert Bernard, of no fixed address, murdered 20-year-old Duane Tomlin in a car park off the Elsing estate, in Enfield, on July 5, 2007, before fleeing to Thailand and living under an assumed name.

He was tracked down by the Metropolitan Police's anti-gang unit, Trident, and extradited to the UK last year.

In October, Bernard was found guilty of murder and of possession of a firearm with intent to endanger life.

Following the sentencing on Monday morning, Mr Tomlin's mother, Gwen Forde, said that Bernard had "got what he deserved".

She told the Advertiser: "I am just glad I got justice for my son. He has broken our family – he has destroyed my family."

The Old Bailey heard that both Mr Tomlin and Bernard had been involved in the supply of class A drugs, which led to a feud between the two.

On the night of the shooting, Mr Tomlin, who was wearing body armour and carrying two loaded guns, including a sub-machine gun, was in a minicab in the car park.

A white van containing Bernard and an unknown accomplice pulled up alongside and fired at the 20-year-old.

Mr Tomlin was able to get out of the car but was shot again at close range. The minicab driver escaped unharmed.

A post-mortem revealed that Mr Tomlin, of Baker Street, Enfield, had been shot at seven times, including twice in the head, with the bullets coming from at least two guns.

The white van was found burnt out in nearby Lackmore Road. Detectives recovered a glove, which had an incomplete DNA profile for Bernard.

His mobile phone was also found at the scene of the shooting and this, along with calls made between Mr Tomlin and Bernard, linked him to the murder.

Judge Richard Marks told Bernard: "Earlier that evening Duane Tomlin was saying that he had had enough of you, that it was war and that it was coming to an end.

"But you and your accomplice got in first. He was gunned down first when he was a passenger in that taxi. And then, when he managed to stagger out of it and was plainly gravely injured, was shot again.

Victim: Duane Tomlin was gunned down in a car park near the Elsing estate in Enfield six years ago

"As far as the taxi driver was concerned, he was understandably entirely terrified thinking that he was going to be shot next."

After realising he had dropped his mobile phone at the scene, Bernard fled to Thailand, obtained a false passport and lived under an assumed identity for five years.

"By then you clearly thought that you had got away with it," said the judge.

Handing down his sentence, he added: "The fact that this was a planned and cold-blooded execution against a drugs background and in a residential area is in my judgement a seriously aggravating feature."

"I accept that there is no doubt on the evidence that Duane Tomlin was after you – as there is no doubt that at the time he met his death he was armed in the manner to which I have already referred – such that it was a matter of chance that you got in first.

"Nevertheless, you could have laid low, you could have avoided a confrontation in any number of ways. Instead, what you did with your accomplice was to arm yourself with a number of weapons, go in a van to the scene, clearly looking for him and looking for the showdown that occurred."

Bernard was also sentenced to ten years for possession of a firearm with intent to endanger life, to be served concurrently.

Worker accuses school of racial discrimination

A SCHOOL in the borough is fighting allegations that senior management racially discriminated against a member of staff.

Giving evidence at an employment tribunal in Watford on Monday morning, school electrician Philip Dominique told the court that he believed he had been stopped from carrying out his full professional duties at Broomfield School, in Wilmer Way, Arnos Grove, for three months as a result of "institutional racism which is systemic throughout the school".

His grievance with senior staff at the school is that they would not have prevented him from carrying out his full duties had he been white.

The tribunal heard that on February 14 Mr Dominique was asked not to carry out his full duties as an electrician as the school had become aware that its insurance might not cover him if he performed electrical repairs and renovations on the buildings.

The school told Mr Dominique it would have to ensure his qualifications were fully compliant with the requirements of the insurance company.

He was retained on full pay and was asked by school management to focus on his general duties.

After all qualifications and certificates had been checked, Mr Dominique was able to resume his full duties on May 3.

Cross-examining Mr Dominique on why he believed the delay was due to racial discrimination, Gordon Menzies, counsel for Enfield Council, read out an email exchange between his line manager and local authority specialists in which his boss was pushing for a speedy resolution to the question.

"Why is she trying to chase this up to get it resolved sooner?" Mr Menzies asked. "She is trying to get you back on full duties as soon as possible.

"You have made a very serious allegation of race discrimination. What evidence do you have for that?"

Mr Dominique insisted that in his witness statement, which was not read out at the hearing but was read in detail by tribunal judge Camilla Palmer, he had outlined ongoing instances of continued acts of racial discrimination in the course of the year.

Stressing that he was not listened to as he should have been within the school, Mr Dominique said: "When the heating broke down, it was caused by a water leak. It took longer to repair because of asbestos as well as the boiler breaking down – all issues that I had brought to their attention."

A decision was due yesterday afternoon but at the time of going to print no outcome had been reached.

Ban to be introduced on December 8 with fines of up to £500

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

AFTER two years of trying every route possible to ban spitting in the borough, campaigners now know the exact date when the habit will officially become a criminal offence.

The new legislation, which will come into force on December 8, is the first anti-spitting by-law to be introduced by any local authority in England.

It was given the official go-ahead by the Department for Communities and Local Government in July.

According to cabinet member for environment Chris Bond, existing litter patrols – which are already equipped with cameras – will enforce the new law.

But he insisted that no extra cameras would be installed specifically to try and catch people out.

Anyone caught spitting could be fined as much as £500.

Anti-spitting campaigners in the borough have been lobbying the government to rubber-stamp the by-law since 2011.

Council chiefs threw their weight behind the ban after the Enfield Over-50s Forum presented a 4,800-signature petition to the local authority.

Life president of the forum Monty Meth is thrilled that the official ban is Cleaning up the streets: Chris Bond, centre, and Monty Meth, third right, with some of Enfield's litter patrols just weeks away from coming into force. He told the Advertiser: "I am pleased that at long last Whitehall has given the go-ahead to ban this brand of antisocial behaviour."

"I think that this is a vindication of the forum's petition, which attracted nearly 5,000 signatures."

"I also think we have to thank the all-party support for getting all politicians behind this ban."

Despite concerns that the outright ban on the habit might strike some residents as heavy-handed, Mr Bond insisted that in fact stamping out spitting once and for all would actually bring the community closer together.

He explained that the ban would be based around an awareness campaign in schools and public places explaining the exact reasons why it was considered such a disgusting habit.

"The day it succeeds is the day you don't give out a fine," said Mr Bond.

"I'm happy for the residents of Enfield and, as ever, I am glad to be of assistance to Enfield residents."

"I am just sorry it has taken so long."

Paedophile jailed

Behind bars: John Lyon was sentenced to 12 years in jail

By Rykeshia Hudson

newsdesk@nlnews.co.uk

A SCHOOL caretaker who sexually assaulted two young girls has been jailed for 12 years.

John Lyon, 40, of Latymer Way, Edmonton, pleaded guilty to attacking two girls under the age of ten.

On Friday at Wood Green Crown Court, he was sentenced to 12 years behind bars for assaulting a seven-year-old by penetration and three years for the sexual assault of a six-year-old. The sentences are to run concurrently.

Lyon was also placed on the sex offenders' register for life while an indefinite sexual offences prevention order was also imposed.

The court heard that in July 2012, Lyon approached a seven-year-old girl, who was attending a summer camp at a school in Enfield Town.

He took the child to a bathroom, where he assaulted her.

The girl later revealed the attack to her mother and the police were contacted.

After a police investigation, another young girl, aged six, admitted to police that she had also been assaulted by Lyon during the Easter holidays of 2012.

Detective Constable Mark Tester, of the sexual offences, exploitation and child abuse command, said: "Lyon betrayed his position of trust as a caretaker at the school in the most heinous way.

"His actions demonstrated a pre-meditation and it is my belief that he poses a very real risk to children.

"This was reflected in the summing-up and sentence imposed by the court."

DC Tester added: "This has been a complicated and protracted inquiry and I wish to thank the victims and their families for their patience and their assistance throughout."

Town hall will be turned into flats as council agrees its fate

By Rykesha Hudson

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

THE fate of the former Southgate Town Hall building has finally been decided.

Following a deal between Hollybrook Homes and Enfield Council, the old town hall, in Green Lanes, Palmers Green, will be extended and converted into flats. The adjacent library will also be refurbished as part of the deal.

In previous discussions on the town hall's future, it had been suggested by Conservatives that the disused building should become a free school.

But this idea was firmly put to bed by the Labour administration, who claimed the site was "inappropriate for a school".

There was also a bid for the site to be the base of a new Greek Orthodox education institute.

Andrew Stafford, cabinet member for finance and property, said: "Southgate Town Hall is an important local landmark for many residents and this deal allows us not only to provide much-needed affordable housing, but also to give local people a much better Palmers Green Library and potentially a new medical centre."

Between 30 and 40 one, two and three-bedroom private and affordable flats will be built in the 19th-century building.

Work is expected to begin next summer and should be completed by late 2015.

Nicholas Langley, from developers Hollybrook Homes, said: "We are looking forward to working with Enfield Council to deliver what we hope will be a successful scheme of private and affordable homes on this historic site."

But Enfield Southgate Conservative MP David Burrowes accused the local authority of selling off the family silver.

He said: "I welcome the planned improvements in the Palmers Green Library and prospect of a GP clinic, but these should not come at the expense of selling off Southgate's community asset for a housing development."

"The council has continuously ignored the schools places crisis in this part of

'Community asset': Conservative MP David Burrowes, shown protesting against the sale of Southgate Town Hall, says that the 19th-century building should not be turned into housing my constituency. We now have the prospect of more housing without school places for these new families.

"Enfield Council has short-changed the people of Enfield Southgate."

Uncertain future after downgrade

SO today marks the start of the first phase of the downgrade of Chase Farm Hospital.

For years this has been fought against, for years campaigners, politicians and the media were left with many unanswered questions about how it was all going to work out.

Well, it's time to say "well done" to the health chiefs, "you got your way, in most part without providing residents with the reassurances that they justly demanded".

Which means that from today, and going on past feedback, women in labour will be unsure whether they will be able to go to the hospital at which they have chosen to give birth, because quite frankly, it could be overrun with mums-to-be having contractions.

As MP Nick de Bois says, the health chiefs have now got to prove themselves right, and let us hope that the closed-door culture of the NHS, which has been endemic across the country from Mid-Staffordshire to Basildon, does not manifest itself in Enfield. Because, if this goes wrong, a reversal of today's move needs to be put on the cards – pronto.

Legal review ruling hasn't ended Chase Farm debate

IN less than a month Chase Farm Hospital will have lost its accident and emergency and consultant-led women, children's and maternity departments as well as vital supporting services such as the intensive care unit, despite nearly a decade of opposition.

The Save Chase Farm group would like to pay tribute to everyone who has marched, voted, signed petitions and sung and who will continue to attend health scrutiny meetings.

We all owe our thanks to Enfield Council, which last week presented a very thorough and robust legal challenge in another attempt to prevent these closures.

The hearing lasted for two days. Secretary of State for Health Jeremy Hunt sent his own barrister, along with four others (including Boris Johnson's wife), to "ensure that this case is not brought before the courts again".

The barrister acting for the council highlighted in detail the years of countless broken promises that have been made to Enfield.

The four new health centres, improved access to GP services, additional funding for primary and community services that were required "as a matter of urgency" back in 2008, to mention but a few.

Sadly, all this fell on deaf ears and the judge chose instead to listen to a version of history we did not recognise, stated by the other side.

The Save Chase Farm group will continue to closely monitor healthcare provision across the borough to try to ensure that Enfield holds on to what remains.

Kate Wilkinson and Kieran McGregor on behalf of the Save Chase Farm Group

□ DAVID [Burrowes] speaks up in defence of Chase Farm Hospital (February 21, 2007).

"The Academy of Medical Royal Colleges made the point that bigger is not necessarily better and pointed to the risks for those living in remote areas if emergency services are concentrated in fewer hospital sites.

"Lack of mobility, transport and services in Cheshunt means that access is a real problem for those in Enfield and beyond."

'MP asks PM to save A&E' (June 27, 2007).

MP David Burrowes raised with Prime Minister Tony Blair the "issue of plans to downgrade Chase Farm's A&E and maternity services".

The PM endorsed Sir George Alberti's plans to downgrade both.

"It was an historic occasion where I wanted to ensure that Chase Farm's A&E and consultant-led maternity services have a future and are not consigned to history.

"I am opposing the plans to cut A&E services at Chase Farm Hospital. I am firmly against plans to downgrade our local A&E. It can only lead to a diminished service for my constituents."

The MP added that hospital managers had not learned that "merging and centralisation provides" a less responsive and effective service:

"Local patients should not have to pay the consequences of government and management failures by losing our A&E. I have seen first hand with my family the lifesaving value of A&E.

"A transfer of the emergency services to Barnet is unacceptable and will put patient safety at risk."

'Council's move for judicial review is challenged by MP' (Advertiser, October 2, 2013).

He forgets past words about mobility for those in "Enfield and beyond", local people being listened to and the first-hand importance he found A&E at a personal level.

□ I AM writing concerning a press release, giving the framework of the IRP (Independent Reconfiguration Panel), with regard to transport.

It states that "the primary care trusts must work with Transport for London and local transport groups to urgently develop and implement a strategy which improves transport provision – particularly in the east and south of Enfield and in relevant areas of Hertfordshire".

We, to the west of Enfield, are also devoid of proper public transport (Oakwood to Chase Farm Hospital) – also from the west of the borough to North Middlesex University Hospital.

Transport issues haven't been sorted.

The shuttle bus from Chase Farm to Barnet Hospital and to North Middlesex Hospital, which Tim Peachey [chief executive of Barnet and Chase Farm Hospitals NHS Trust] aims to give us for three years, is likely to be a ghost bus as it seems highly unlikely that one would have an appointment at one hospital followed by an appointment at another.

We need proper public transport to get us to Chase Farm in the first place.

Festive cheer: Youngsters from Hazelwood School led the singing as the lights were switched on in Palmers Green

By Hannah Crouch
newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

CHRISTMAS officially arrived in Palmers Green last week with the switching-on of the festive lights on Thursday.

The annual event opened with children from nearby Hazelwood School singing Christmas carols, getting everyone into a festive mood while mince pies were handed out.

Mayor of Enfield Chaudhury Anwar turned on the lights, at The Triangle, in front of the crowd that had gathered, including Enfield Southgate MP David Burrowes.

Costas Georgiou, chairman of the Green Lanes Business Association, who organised the event, said: "It was absolutely full of people – the best event we have had so far."

"Everyone joined in with the singing, especially when it came to Jingle Bells, cakes were passed around and the weather was good, so overall it went very smoothly."

The Green Lanes Business Association, which has organised the Christmas lights for the past 16 years, together with the Enfield Business and Retailers' Association, is keen to encourage more people to shop in their town centre.

Mr Georgiou added: "It is too easy for people to jump in their cars and drive off away from the high street to the nearest superstore."

"The Christmas lights ceremony is all about bringing people back to shopping in town centres, that is the message we wanted to put forward."

The lights will be on until the first week of January.

Focus on tackling domestic violence

ENFIELD Council and the Metropolitan Police are launching ten days of action to tackle domestic violence.

To coincide with International Day Against Violence Against Women, also known as White Ribbon Day next Monday, November 25, a host of events to stop abusers in their tracks has been organised to raise awareness of domestic violence in the borough and offer advice to victims.

Cabinet member for community well-being and public health Christine Hamilton said: "There is no place in a civilised society for a cowardly and abhorrent crime such as domestic violence. We are determined to raise awareness of this issue."

The special events include a White Ribbon Day conference at Forty Hall Banqueting Suite, in Forty Hill, Enfield, and a candlelit vigil in Edmonton Green on Thursday, November 28, between 2pm and 6pm.

There will also be a performance of Whisper Me Happy Ever After by Face Front Theatre on December 2 aimed at primary school pupils to highlight that there can be problems at home and that children can speak to someone about their worries.

If you or someone you know is experiencing domestic violence, call one of the following – National Domestic Violence Helpline on 0808 2000 247, Solace Women's Aid Advice Line on 0808 802 5565 or North London Rape Crisis Centre on 020 7619 1369.

In an emergency always call 999.

Blooming spectacular

By Rykesha Hudson

newdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

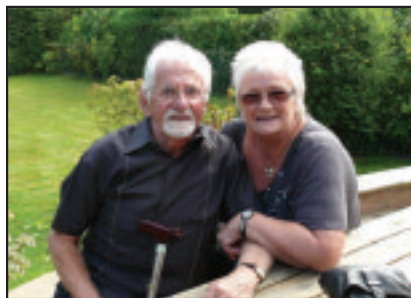

GREEN-fingered residents have been thanked for their hard work and dedication in turning the borough into a floral wonderland.

They competed for the Enfield in Bloom awards, which invited schools, residents and volunteers to enter 17 categories including best residential street, school grounds, public building, communal garden and all-year-round garden.

Retirement estate Ingleborough, in Cavell Drive, Enfield, won joint gold with Albuhera Court, Enfield, for best communal garden.

Resident and estate manager Daphne Tilby, 54, said: "We've won gold before and I'm so proud we have won again. This year the grounds are looking lovely and have a nice, homely feel."

Winner of the best innovative growing space was special needs centre Radiomarrow, in Turkey Street, Enfield, which has won gold three years in a row and also scooped an award in the London in Bloom competition in August. Service manager and founder Clifford Tolliday said: "We help people with learning difficulties and train them to prepare for work. We teach members gardening skills so they can find jobs and learn to grow their own vegetables."

Doris Arnold, 74, of Gordon Road, Enfield, has won seven gold awards for her small front garden.

"This year I had an orange theme," she said. "I used some lovely marigolds and pansies."

Chairman of Enfield in Bloom and winner of this year's special Livia Award, Dennis Lushey, 66, of Enfield in Bloom for 15 years. He hopes to encourage the whole community to garden and enjoy their environment."

A gold, silver and bronze winner was decided for each category. All the winners received a certificate during an awards ceremony at The Royal Chace Hotel, in The Ridgeway, Enfield.

Staff fight hours cuts

By James Brilliant

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

THE College of Haringey, Enfield and North East London is set to be hit by a fresh wave of protests during the next week over proposed cuts to cleaners' working hours.

Under current proposals, around 60 cleaners will see their contracts cut from 51 weeks a year to 39 from January 2014, translating into a 23 per cent pay cut for the lowest paid cleaners.

The protests come after talks held on Friday between the college, the GMB union and Ocean, the contractor which employs the staff, failed to break the deadlock.

"The college and Ocean are showing complete and utter contempt with the staff – they refused to allow them in the room to discuss their own terms and conditions," said Steve Sweeney, the GMB's regional organiser.

"To be paying the cleaners the minimum wage in one of the poorest boroughs in London is an absolute disgrace, and there was no consultation."

CoNEL has stated that the new cleaning rotas were a necessity as it faced a budget cut of £3.17million and sought to reduce expenditure without affecting teaching.

A college spokeswoman said: "The meeting on Friday was not productive. However, the college would like to meet the union representative and representatives from the contractor again to try to resolve this conflict," she added.

The protests will take place at 6.30pm tomorrow outside the college's centre in Hertford Road, Ponders End, and at 8.30am next Wednesday outside the campus in Tottenham High Road.

At Bensons for Beds we know that choosing a new bed isn't always the easiest thing. Let's face it, when it comes to mattresses even we have to admit they all look pretty similar.

After listening to what customers wanted from their bed buying experience we designed our unique Comfort Station™, a simple three stage process that helps take all the stress and guess work out of finding the most comfortable bed.

All our mattresses around the store are rated from one to five for firmness and, once you have tried the beds in our Comfort Station™, you'll know just the firmness rating you're looking for.

Some people like the feel of an open coil mattress, others prefer pocket sprung or even memory foam. But when it comes to your mattress, only you can decide which one feels right.

Just ask one of our team and they will explain the differences – along with giving you any other help or advice you may need.

Pop-up charity card shop

By Hannah Crouch

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

A POP-UP shop in Palmers Green is selling Christmas cards to raise money for different charities.

The Cards For Good Causes stall was opened last month at Palmers Green United Reformed Church by Monty Meth, president of the Enfield Over-50s Forum, and is selling more than 200 different designs of cards.

Church members started selling cards 20 years ago and have continued raising money for charity every year since, building up a regular customer base.

Diana Goforth, manager of the pop-up shop, said: "We get a variety of visitors every year but often the same people will return - one woman who lived in Cuffley told me she comes back every year."

The group of volunteers do their best to advertise the shop.

Mrs Goforth added: "The shop is sort of in the middle of nowhere, so we hand out flyers and posters around the community to make sure as many people are aware of it as possible."

Festive shoppers can also buy other Christmas items including wrapping paper and decorations.

The UK's largest multi-charity Christmas card organisation, Cards For Good Causes has been running since 1964 and will pay 70p from every pound made to 29 local and national charities, including the North London Hospice, which has branches in Winchmore Hill and North Finchley.

Liz Flawn, regional organiser for Cards For Good Causes, said: "You are buying once but giving twice and you cannot put an email on the mantelpiece or get same warm feeling as when you open a Christmas card."

The stall is running from 10am to 4pm on Monday to Saturday at the church, in Burford Gardens, until December 10.

Cards will also be sold at The Dugdale Centre, in London Road, Enfield Town, for three Saturdays starting this weekend between noon and 2pm.

Eighteen in court after dawn swoop by police

ALMOST 20 people are facing a raft of drug-related charges after they were arrested during a swoop by police in dawn raids across the borough earlier this month.

Following the arrests, that the police say were aimed at breaking down criminal gangs in the borough, 18 people aged between 16 and 27 have been charged with a total of 77 offences.

The intelligence-led operation was aimed specifically at suspected gang members in areas that are suffering from antisocial behaviour.

All 18 accused were remanded in custody when they appeared at Highbury Corner Magistrates' Court on November 8.

They are due to appear at Wood Green Crown Court Tomorrow.

POLICE SECURE LOCKS

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

THE poisoning of fish in a swathe of waterways has angered an angler who has fished the rivers of the borough for half-a-century.

A poison which kills all fish and some aquatic insects and amphibians will be poured into Wildwood's lake and Cuffley Brook in a bid to wipe out the non-native topmouth gudgeon that have colonised the lake.

The preparation and set-up began on Monday and, depending on the weather, the cull will be complete by December 6. An Environment Agency spokesman said: "We will make a decision about restocking after the work is complete."

After widespread outrage on the part of environmental campaigners, officers from the Environment Agency tried to allay fears at a meeting in Forty Hall last Wednesday.

Two specialists presented the case for the cull, stressing that killing all the fish in a section of the brook and in the lake was a necessary evil if any native breeds are to have a chance to thrive.

"This is a sign of how concerned the Environment Agency is," Phil Belfield told the meeting in the long gallery. "Drastic measures are called for in this instance."

One of those appalled is angler Paul Andrews,

60, of Enfield, who is convinced fish stocks will be permanently affected.

"I cannot believe this is happening," he said. "There are rivers elsewhere in this country where they would never dare do this because the fishing permits cost between £5,000 to £10,000 a year – but they think they can do it here? It just beggars belief. If someone pollutes the river at all, you can be up in court – so it makes no sense whatsoever."

Mr Andrews, who has been fishing in the area for the past 50 years, is also flabbergasted that the Environment Agency is taking action over this breed of fish, yet does not seem to be doing anything about signal crayfish, another invasive, non-native species, which is forcing native fish out of freshwater streams and brooks across the country.

Campaigner Jill Simpson has taken her case to Nick de Bois, MP for Enfield North, who has agreed to table a question in the House of Commons demanding to know if the Secretary of State for the Department for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs believes the drastic measure should only be undertaken after a full consultation based on an impact assessment.

A view from Westminster

Cross-party campaigning needs to continue if we are to improve healthcare

THE decision in the High Court this month to back the downgrading of services at Chase Farm Hospital, right, was extremely disappointing.

GPs in Enfield approved the plans to replace the accident and emergency department with an urgent care centre.

I believe Enfield Council was right to challenge this in court and I gave the Labour administration my full backing.

That this judicial review was ultimately lost does not mean it was the wrong decision – people in Enfield expect their local political representatives to fight this all the way.

Indeed, people in Enfield can be proud of the way we've campaigned to save Chase Farm.

We have done so over many years. So many marches, petitions, letters, challenges in parliament and the courts. You name it, we've tried it.

Conservative and Labour councillors locally have continued to put party politics aside and present a united front on Chase Farm.

While the fight for A&E at Chase Farm is now over, a new fight for better healthcare services in Enfield has just begun. By continuing the cross-party consensus we have achieved locally, we can go into that fight stronger.

Let's not forget that within one mile between the east and west of the borough, the difference in life expectancy is 12 years. The provision of primary care is at best patchy in places.

We achieved a real win for Enfield in January when the borough's three MPs – myself, Andy Love and David Burrowes – and Doug Taylor, the leader of Enfield Council, successfully lobbied the public health minister for a ten per cent increase in health funding – among the highest increases for any local authority in the country.

The extra £1.2million we secured took Enfield's allocation to £12.9m for 2013/14 and is real evidence of what a cross-party approach can achieve.

While I still firmly believe that Chase Farm Hospital should have an A&E unit – and I don't regret telling the Prime Minister that we in Enfield feel utterly let down – there are new battles that need to be fought and won.

I want to see much better access to GPs, improvements in the quality of primary care and help for people to lead longer, healthier lives.

With politicians working together, and with the help of residents and local GPs, we can achieve this.

OPINION

Monty Meth

Life president – Enfield Over-50s Forum

Big freeze is hurting pensioners

NOW it's official. We're on the path to prosperity and the recovery has taken hold. Headlines scream "inflation is down", but food prices went up 4.3 per cent – and please don't mention rising fuel bills.

"Our long-term plan for Britain is working," says Prime Minister David Cameron, yet last year average earnings rose by 0.8 per cent, the lowest since data was first compiled in 2001.

A record near 30 million people are working, but eight million are part-timers and 965,000 16 to 24-year-olds are still jobless. So don't think the good times are round the corner.

"We need to do more with less, not just now, but permanently," adds Mr Cameron. What this means came last week in a consultation from the Department of Work and Pensions.

They want to make it easier for employers to cut their costs by ditching annual pension rises linked to the cost of living, end pensions being paid to surviving widows and end pensions linked to final salaries.

It is a frightening outlook for today's workforce who face being deprived of the inflation-protected, salary-linked pension scheme that many of my generation enjoy in giving us a pretty secure retirement.

This frozen pensions concept is an ominous warning for today's 12 million pensioners as there's still no guarantee from the chancellor they will be increased with inflation after 2015.

And it's a sorry outlook for the 565,000 British pensioners who've had their pensions frozen at the rate it was when they left our shores to live in Canada, Australia and South Africa, while 650,000 other pensioners who emigrated to France, Spain or the US still get the same annual increase as we do.

So while we have a basic state pension of £110.15 a week, a 90-year-old veteran retiring to Canada in 1988 still receives a £41 weekly pension. Frozen pensions are a menace – we have been warned.

ACCURATE VALUATIONS IN ENFIELD

The main factors that affect the price achieved for your home are likely to be size, location and fittings. However, there are innumerable other variations that can add significant value.

Valuing properties in West Enfield is not like valuing properties elsewhere. There are thousands of different styles and in some roads every other property is quite different to the next. The knowledge to appreciate these differences can only be built up over time.

At Ian Gibbs, our valuers have built up that knowledge with over 35 years of valuing properties in the EN1/EN2 area and that experience heightens the chance of you realising the full potential of your greatest financial asset.

CONDITIONS OF ACCEPTANCE FOR ALL ADVERTISEMENTS

Orders are accepted by the Publishers subject to the Standard Conditions agreed between the Newspaper Society and the Institute of Practitioners in Advertising. Save that:

1. Advertisements are accepted on the conditions that (a) descriptions relating to goods are accurate and in no way contravene the provisions of the Trade Descriptions Act 1968, and the Fair Trading Act 1973, and (b) the copy complies with the British Code of Advertising Practice. Advertisements offering credit or hire facilities must conform to the Consumer Credit (Advertisements) Regulations 1980.

2. 'Classified' Advertisers offering goods or service of a business, commercial or trade nature will, at the discretion of the Publishers, be deemed 'Trade Advertisers', and as such, must include their names in advertisements. A telephone number is an optional addition to these requirements and not an alternative.

To comply with the Business Advertisements (Disclosure) Order 1977, Trade Advertisers must make it clear that they are selling goods in the course of business either by content, format, size or place of the advertisement or by including words such as 'trade', 'dealer', 'agent', 'wholesaler', 'IT' etc in the advertisement. The Publishers accept no liability whatsoever for any loss or damage however caused arising out of:

- Any error, inaccuracy or omission in the printing or publishing of any advertisement;
- Any failure to publish an advertisement on the day / date or day / dates specified by the advertiser; or
- Any delay in forwarding or omission to forward replies to box numbers to the Advertiser.

4. The Publishers will endeavour to publish advertisements on the day / date or day / dates specified by the Advertiser but insertion days / dates cannot be guaranteed.

5. Where shrinkage of advertisement occurs for whatever reasons the advertisement will be charged to the nearest full centimetre. This will NOT apply to the full-page advertisements, which remain full pages even after shrinkage.

6. The Publishers reserve the right to reject an advertisement or to vary it in any way they deem fit, at any time before publication, whether or not the advertisement has already been accepted for publication.

7. Whilst every effort is made to minimise errors in advertisements, mistakes do sometimes occur. Advertisers or their agents should therefore check their advertisements and inform us of any errors immediately. Responsibility cannot be accepted for more than one incorrect insertion. Typographical or minor changes, which do not affect the value of the advertisement, do not qualify for republication or allowances.

8. All gross advertising rates (except classified line and semi-display) are subject to and include a 0.1% Advertising Standards Board of Finance surcharge, payable by the advertisers to help finance the self-regulatory control system administered by the Advertising Standards Authority.

9. All rates quoted are subject to VAT at the rate currently in force at the time the advertisement appears.

10. Should the rate for advertisements be altered the price for remaining insertions shall be revised accordingly or the publishers shall have the right to cancel the unexpired portion of the order.

11. The placing of an advertisement order will be deemed an acceptance of these conditions.

12. Account facilities are granted at the discretion of the Company. 13. All accounts must be settled within the terms agreed by the Company and the Customer.

(1) Should an advertiser be in breach of the agreed terms, the publisher shall be entitled to levy a 10% surcharge on the value of the whole debt in respect of accounts with terms of less than 30 days, and any discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed.

(2) Regular monthly accounts that are in breach of the agreed terms will pay an interest rate of 6% above the current bank of England base rate for each month that the account is overdue and discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed. Should Legal action be required the interest will be charged in accordance with the County Court Act 1984.

14. Where an advertiser instructs / appoints an advertising agent to act on their behalf, the advertiser will remain jointly and severally liable for payment in respect for an advertisement(s) should the appointed agent fail to pay. For the avoidance of doubt, the agent acts for the advertiser and not for the publisher with the agent being responsible for notifying the advertiser of this liability.

15. All queries must be notified, preferably in writing to the accounts department of the publisher within 7 days of the invoice date.

16. All digital services are maintained in partnership with the publishers' hosting service providers. Every effort is made to ensure the continuity of these services, but some occasional technical downtime beyond the publishers control may occur. The publisher and its associated companies shall be under no liability if the production and distribution of web services is delayed or prevented by any cause beyond the control of the publisher.

17. The Publisher may provide voucher copies for published advertisements in electronic form only subject to certain criteria. Further information is available on request.

18. The copyright of advertisements produced wholly or partially by the Publishers belong to the Publishers. Advertisers may not reproduce such advertisements without the Publishers' consent.

Box Numbers
Boxes are open for the receipt of bona fide answers and are not available for distribution of trade canvassing matter. Original testimonials, goods, cash, cash stamps or payments of any kind must not be enclosed. A box Number and postal address are charged as part of the advertisement, i.e. Box No., centre address. TOWN SEARCH FOR MANAGER

By Dominique Stafford

sport.enfield@nlhnews.co.uk

THE search for a new manager is well under way at Enfield Town following their decision to part company with Steve Newing last week.

Newing and his assistant Jason Dale were relieved of their duties on Wednesday, in the wake of a hugely disappointing 3-0 defeat at home to Wingate and Finchley the previous night – with coaches Peter and Bryan Hammatt being put in temporary charge of the team.

The result was Town's sixth successive defeat in the league and left them three points adrift of safety in the Ryman Premier Division.

And chairman Paul Millington explained that it was the hugely below-par display against Wingate which finally led to the board deciding to make the change.

"The decisive factor was the performance last Tuesday," he said. "That match certainly didn't give the indication that things were going to improve, and we felt that we needed to do something before it got too late."

"What Steve and Jason achieved on limited resources at a time when the club was having to financially concentrate on the new stadium was something to be proud of. He was a great manager to work with, and I'll personally miss him a great deal."

"We now have to make a difficult and very important decision, and hopefully whoever we bring in will do as well as Steve has done."

"We need to get the criteria together for what exactly we are looking for, but we'll certainly want someone who has got good contacts in the game and I've been impressed with the standard of people who have expressed an interest."

Newing was understandably disappointed to have lost his job, but he admitted that the decision did not come as a complete surprise.

"Getting sacked is part and parcel of football and it was going to happen at some point," he said. "Results haven't been good and the last two performances were awful."

"I won't be the last manager to lose his job, but I'm obviously disappointed that it's happened – although I respect the decision."

"I think that the final straw though was the dire performances with a real lack of application and effort in the last two matches against Grays and Wingate."

"Players don't become bad players overnight though, we'd just hit one of those runs of form and I've got no doubt that I would have kept the club in the division if I'd been allowed to stay in charge."

He added: "I enjoyed every minute of my time at the club. Obviously the last couple of months have been the toughest, but I'll look back with no regrets."

"The highlight was undoubtedly the promotion year, which we achieved in incredibly difficult circumstances with the stadium move which meant that for the first few months of the season we didn't have a proper home and considering that we only had eight points from eight games."

"I'm certainly proud of what I've achieved and I leave with no hard feelings whatsoever. The club is run by some good people, and I know that I'll always be welcomed back there."

The board are currently sifting through applicants with a view to setting up interviews, but a new manager is not expected to be appointed this week.

Enfield Town were without a match at the weekend and they return to action at home to high-flying Dulwich Hamlet on Saturday (3pm), before hosting Harlow Town in the League Cup on Tuesday (7.45pm).

End of an era: Steve Newing has been sacked as manager of Town

SPORTS SHORTS

Rugby Union: Enfield Ignatians will engage in the biggest project in their history when all the teams at the club – ranging from the minis to the seniors – will each play a game at Saracens' Allianz Park ground on March 1.

The climax of the 12-hour rugby marathon, otherwise known as the Big Club Day out, will be the floodlit London Division Two North East clash between Ignatians' first team and Saffron Walden at 7.30pm.

"This will be the largest event our club has ever organised," said Ignatians' youth chairman Harold Pritchard, the driving force behind the project. "It's a massive exercise in logistics and will mean that every single one of the 500 players in the club – ranging in age from four to 64 – will get a game against different opposition."

"In order to meet the demands of the schedule, the first game will kick off at 9.30am, and will be the prelude to 12 hours of back-to-back rugby."

Hockey: Table-topping Southgate came from behind twice on their way to securing a 5-2 victory at home to Bromley and Beckenham in the Conference East of the English Hockey League on Saturday.

Nicholas Bluett put the visitors ahead and, after John Sterlini equalised, Matthew Grannell restored Bromley's advantage early in the second half.

But Southgate then took control with Rick Gay (two), Sterlini and George Scott all finding the net in a 20-minute spell to give them a comfortable win.

Southgate visit third-placed Teddington, who lie four points behind them in the table, on Sunday.

Battling Es suffer defeat in the Vase

TEN-MAN Enfield (1893) bowed out of the FA Vase at the first hurdle as they were beaten 3-2 at home by Norwich United on Saturday.

The Es' good run in the competition last season meant that they received a bye through to the second round, but they got off to a poor start in this match as they fell behind on seven minutes.

The hosts then had Scott Curley dismissed on 20 minutes and any hope they had of making progress appeared over when Norwich increased their lead early in the second half.

However, the ten men fought back superbly and goals from John Bricknell and Harry Prince saw them get back on level terms – only for the visitors to snatch victory with four minutes remaining.

The opening goal arrived when Norwich were awarded a penalty, and although Matt Blake's spot kick was saved, Ian Hunter was on hand to knock in the rebound.

The Es' task then became harder when Curley saw red for punching Paul Cook in an off-the-ball incident, and they did well to get to half-time without falling further behind.

But they were undone two minutes into the second half as Cook latched on to Hunter's through-ball and confidently fired home.

Despite their numerical disadvantage, Enfield (1893) continued to battle well and they were handed a lifeline on 75 minutes when they were awarded a penalty which was dispatched by Bricknell.

Six minutes later the recovery was completed as Prince raced on to a ball over the top and slide a low shot past keeper Adam Bennett.

The fightback ended up counting for nothing however as Hunter drilled a shot through a crowd of players and into the net on 86 minutes to seal the win for the visitors.

Enfield (1893) host Clapton in the Essex Senior League on Saturday (3pm).

Sarries turn on the style to maintain perfect record in cup

ALEX SANDERSON hailed Saracens' young stars after they continued their perfect start to the LV= Cup by romping to a 51-10 bonus-point win at home to Scarlets on Sunday.

Having beaten Wasps 24-21 in their first match the previous week, Sarries ran in six tries on this occasion – with Matt Hankin, Jack Wilson, Jackson Wray, Jamie George, Nathan Earle and Tim Streater all crossing the line as they moved six points clear at the top of Pool One.

Ben Spencer added 17 points with the boot as he was successful with all seven of his kicks at goal, while Nils Mordt also slotted over two conversions, and defence coach Sanderson – who is taking charge of the side in this competition – was delighted with the performance.

"There were some good young players on show and you're going to see a lot more of them," he said. "The likes of Hankin, who would have played for Bedford this weekend until we called him in due to injuries. He had a superb game."

"It's nice as well for two lads to get their first tries for the club at the end. It's great for us to have such exciting talent waiting in the wings."

"Excellence breeds excellence, so we hope the mix of youth and experience will bring success in this competition."

"In terms of our attack we haven't been that much better than that all season. In the first half defensively there were a few things we could have fixed because they made some half breaks, and our maul defence is something we need to address."

Saracens return to Aviva Premiership action at Exeter on Saturday (3pm).

Out of the kitchen – and into party mode

FOR anyone looking forward to a finger-licking traditional Christmas meal with all the trimmings, yet dreading the prospect of spending hours in the kitchen, we have a solution.

The four-course Christmas Day menu has wild mushroom soup or melon with cured ham as starters.

Follow this up with the Old Manor roast turkey, which comes with veggie chipolatas, crispy bacon, stuffing balls, Yorkshire pudding, roast potatoes, vegetables and gravy.

For non-meat eaters there is a nut roast with vegetarian-friendly trimmings or Scottish salmon en croute, served with lightly buttered new potatoes, a wild mushroom sauce and sautéed spinach.

● The Adam and Eve, The Ridgeway, Mill Hill. Tel: 020 8959 1553. Three-course Christmas day menu for £69.95.

WEARABLE artwork.
That is how Claire Swindale describes the new scarves featuring six of her photographs. The artist and photographer, who was born and raised in Potters Bar, has many strings to her bow – including launching McDonald's Happy Meals in the UK in a previous life working in advertising and media.

Now she is combining her two passions of art and travel with the scarves featuring shots from Kathmandu, in Nepal, a graffiti heart from a two-mile long wall of graffiti in Mumbai, India. As well as four London-based photos including Big Ben, pictured, a pearly king's sleeve, a distinctive street in Spitalfields, east London, and a Soho drag queen.

Claire said: "I did a survey and printed off a list of 100 or so photos and got people to choose their top ten."

"I travelled the world for eight years and have a real passion for travel."

"The view of Kathmandu is from a temple. It is a really popular picture at my shows and people are drawn to it, and try to guess where it is because it could be a lot of cities."

The collectible scarves, made in England, come in three sizes: a neckerchief/pocket handkerchief, a 1sq m scarf in silk, and a longer one which is made of 92 per cent wool and eight per cent silk. The silk scarves are £40 and £125 respectively, while the large scarf is £135.

HAVE YOURSELF A DIY CHRISTMAS

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

THAT time of year is looming again when you venture into the darkest recesses of the least used part of your home and drag a bag of tired and dusty baubles into the cold light of a December afternoon.

While there is always something festive about untangling what feels like hundreds of feet of fairy lights, how often do we sack it all off in favour of a completely new set of shiny baubles and trinkets from the Christmas section of the best-lit department store in town – spending a small fortune in the process.

Instead, using a little bit of imagination and effort, why not create everlasting bunting and sweet-smelling Christmas wreaths yourself?

Enfield's very own textile queen, Carla Learoyd, who runs Beads and Bobbins soft furnishing company, as well as a flourishing sewing school, is a firm believer in the power and beauty of the home-made.

"It is so easy to make a Christmas wreath – you can buy a ready-made wreath base from a garden centre, then simply choose your fabric to cover it, and then all you need is a little bit of toy stuffing," she says.

Carla reveals how she personalises her wreath using cinnamon sticks, slices of dried orange and red or white ribbons.

And not only does she believe that a home-made wreath looks better, Carla is adamant that having decorations which you have made yourself give the whole home a warm, fuzzy Christmas atmosphere.

That is a view echoed by Capel Manor's florist Katie Razzell, who is a big fan of keeping your Christmas wreath as natural and authentic as possible.

"I would definitely take advantage of all

TRY Christmas wreath making for yourself at Forty Hall Farm, in Forty Hill, Enfield, from 1pm-4pm on Sunday, December 8. Collect natural materials such as holly, ivy and pine cones around the farm for your wreath. There will be mulled wine, mince pies and sausage rolls for sale, and a chance for children to feed the animals. Entry is free with a suggested £2 donation for each wreath you take home. For more details visit www.fortyhallfarm.org.uk

ANNE-MARIE SANDERSON

Crafty: Carla Learoyd helps Lucy Pitter, nine, to make a lavender-scented pomander

the seasonal plants in your back garden," she says. "There are lovely plants with natural winter berries. And in parks and forests there is wonderful holly and ivy you can weave into a ready-made wreath frame."

One of the most Christmassy and good-value tricks, adds Katie, is to dry out the heads of some hydrangea plants and when they are dry and brittle you can spray them with gold paint or sprinkle them with glitter.

To keep wreaths original and a little bit different, Katie suggests an unusual trick.

"I like to place a fresh apple in my wreath and in the cold weather it actually keeps really well. Maybe keep a bit of an eye on it if you're leaving it out for much longer than that, though," she laughs.

But if a wreath seems like one chore too many, Carla suggests getting your children involved.

"Christmas bunting is so easy to make and the whole family can help out," she says. All you need to do is buy a few metres of fabric tape that you can use as the bunting tape, and then the internet is wonderful, because it means you can print out templates for a personalised message such as 'merry Christmas', and then use the printout as a pattern, cutting around the shape.

"Then, once your letters are all cut out, you can use fabric glue to attach them to the tape – and kids love it," she adds.

Carla recommends using felt for the letters because it is such a stiff material, there is no need to hem the edges of the material.

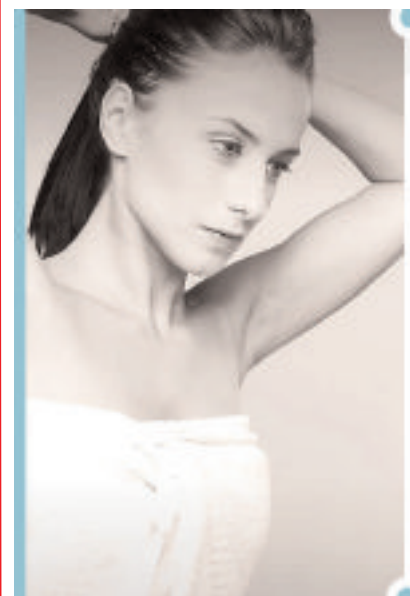

And getting the kids involved conveniently means they are quietly occupied for an hour or so – meaning there is ample time for another glass or two of Baileys.

And that is nothing compared to the best Christmas present of all – bragging rights when guests gush over how beautiful your Christmas decorations are. You can say, "Oh yes, I just whipped that up with the kids while watching Downton one night."

Different cultures say how they celebrate

Reporter Koos Couvée speaks with members of some of north London's diverse communities about just how they celebrate over the Christmas period – and finds out what is on the menu.

PAUL RIDDELL, 57, of Trinity Avenue, Bush Hill Park, a member of the Enfield Caribbean Association

IT IS increasingly difficult to define what a Caribbean Christmas is in Britain, as we are four generations on since the first migrants from the West Indies arrived. From a religious perspective, the focus is of course the birth of Christ – that aspect is very strong within the Caribbean community.

We tend to go to Park Lane Methodist Church in Wembley, where my wife Paulette and I were married, on Christmas Day.

A lot of people will fly to the Caribbean over the festive period, it is quite extraordinary the amount of people that go back, particularly in Jamaica, where my family's roots lie.

Christmas is a time to spend with family, and one year we will be with our son Marcus, the next with Paulette's parents, or with my daughter Ebony. We rotate it every year – it is very unusual for us to spend two concurrent Christmases at home.

On the menu we usually have turkey or capon chicken, which is what I prefer, with sweet potato or yam stuffing. We also eat fish, ham, Brussel sprouts and roast vegetables.

Sorrel is also one of my favourites – it's like spinach and we prepare it from scratch with rum or red wine – and always on our Christmas menu.

Most people with Caribbean roots are born here, so the traditions and foods are more British with a Caribbean twist, rather than the other way around.

LOUKIA TZORTI, 58, of Norfolk Avenue, Palmers Green, a member of the Enfield Cypriot Association

MY husband George, my children Christopher and Laura, and I go to church every year on Christmas

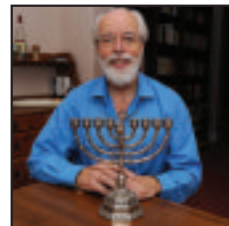

Day, and this year we are planning to go to St Mary's Greek Orthodox Church in Wood Green.

After church, the two sides of the family get together each year, one side of the family on Christmas Day and the other Boxing Day, and we always exchange presents.

We used to have gatherings of over 40 people, when mine and my husband's families used to come together with all the siblings, nephews and nieces at my mother's house, but we don't do this any more. It all got a bit much for the older family members. This year we will celebrate Christmas at my mother's house and go to George's parents on Boxing Day, but we rotate this every year.

On Christmas Day we have pork, a traditional meat at a Greek Christmas meal, but we also roast a turkey with stuffing – we combine Greek and English food traditions. For dessert, we serve a Greek Christmas cake – a traditional sponge cake filled with nuts and raisins, syrup, fig and apricots.

New Year's is usually a bigger occasion than Christmas in Cyprus, and for New Year's Eve we also prepare a special cake and we put a lucky coin in it. The cake is divided among all the people present when we celebrate and whoever finds the coin in their slice will be very lucky that year.

CLIVE LAWTON, 60, of Alexandra Road, Muswell Hill, who is scholar-in-residence at the London Jewish Cultural Centre, in Golders Green

THE eight-day Jewish festival of Hanukkah usually coincides with Christmas, but this year actually starts on November 27. The festival pre-dates Christmas by 150 years, and has its origins in 163BC, when the Jewish people took back the temple in Jerusalem from the Syrian empire, which had attempted to suppress Judaism.

Central to the festival is the Hanukkah – a menorah (a Jewish candelabrum) with eight candles, each representing a day of the festival. The original Hanukkah in the temple in Jerusalem was lit with oil, an important part of the festival and the reason we eat oily foods such as potato latkes (small pancakes) and doughnuts. Each night people will light their Hanukkah and give each other presents.

For Jews, Christmas has no meaning, and to concede to it or participate feels confusing for some – like a kind of betrayal. Others are more relaxed. After all, it is for many an opportunity to come together, and many families participate in some of the outward trappings of Christmas Day.

It can't be denied that Christmas has had a major impact on Hanukkah. For example, people will often find it difficult to resist giving children presents. Some families make Hanukkah into a Jewish Christmas, while others emphasise to their children that it is a different festival altogether

Open invitation: London Jewish Cultural Centre chief executive Louise Jacobs is urging the whole community to enjoy the gift fair

THE London Jewish Cultural Centre is inviting people to stock up on gifts, while enjoying live entertainment, cooking and drawing classes at this Sunday's Hanukkah Gift Fair.

Gifts, jewellery and an array of contemporary judica (Jewish ceremonial art) will be available for those looking to add to the Hanukkah festivities, which begin next Wednesday evening.

Children will be entertained by doughnut decorating, t-shirt graffiti, candle making and magic classes, and "How to draw Hanukkah" workshops hosted by artist Linda Samuels.

As well as a host of live music acts, the centre's youth arm, Fusion, will be hosting its own talent show, Fusion's Got Talent.

To enter the competition, call 020 8511 7902 or email rachel@ljcc.org.uk Offering lectures, courses and seminars, the centre in Ivy House, North End Road, Golders Green, is the capital's leading provider of Jewish education and culture.

Chief executive Louise Jacobs, said: "Hanukkah is one of the most joyous Jewish festivals. We would like to share that celebration with the whole community.

"We hope that people of all denominations will come to Ivy House and join us to browse through a wonderful array of gift stalls, participate in hands-on activities for kids and adults and enjoy some delicious food."

The event runs from 1.30pm to 5pm. Adult entry is £2 and children get in free.

Win Dinosaur Zoo tickets

FOLLOWING a hugely successful nationwide tour, including a one-month summer season at Regent's Park Open Air Theatre, Dinosaur Zoo roars into London's West End for a Christmas run at the Phoenix Theatre.

From cute baby dinos to teeth-gnashing giants, Dinosaur Zoo brings these extraordinary life-like dinosaurs to the stage in this interactive and hilariously funny live show, which will be performed from November 27 until January 12, 2014.

During the show, audience members brave enough to get up close and personal with the dinosaurs are brought onto the stage to assist the zoo keeper in their daily tasks.

But be warned – not all of these ravenous reptiles are as tame as they seem.

For those unable to join the dinosaurs on stage, they can say hello at the official meet and greet at the end of each show.

We are offering three lucky readers the chance to win a family ticket to Dinosaur Zoo, as well as a goody bag.

To be in with a chance of winning, just answer the following question:

Which of these is a proper dinosaur?

- a) Tyrannosaurus rex
- b) Bigosaurus
- c) Smellysaurus

Send your answer, along with your name, address and a daytime phone number, to Dinosaur Zoo competition, North London & Herts Newspapers, 187 Baker Street, Enfield, EN1 3JT. Alternatively, email your answer, plus all of your contact details, to competitions@nlhnews.co.uk with "Dinosaur Zoo" as the subject matter.

Entries close on Friday, November 29, and usual competition rules apply.

RETAILER OF THE YEAR 2013 RUNNER-UP WITH ENTERPRISE ENFIELD

THIS year, Noah's Ark Children's Hospice is asking you to consider making a donation that could pay for a session of respite care.

The hospice works with life-limited children and their families in north London and provides support in the community through initiatives such as play sessions, respite care and family activities.

The charity also runs parents groups and has an active siblings programme.

Michael, the father to seven-year-old Eli, is sharing his experience of using Noah's Ark's services as part of the appeal.

He said: "Our daughter was born with profound and multiple complex needs.

"The consequence of this disability is that our Eli had significant and severe global impairment, no independent movement, no language or vision and little or no responsiveness to external stimulation.

"One cannot imagine the sense of loss and shock we felt as the realisation of our daughter's needs became apparent.

"We'd not yet left the ward at North Middlesex University Hospital when our first meeting with Sasha, the link support manager from Noah's Ark, took place as we tried to come to terms with how we might manage in the short and long term.

"Our second contact was with Lisa, the play therapist,

Noah's Ark employs to visit families such as ours once a week to help develop Eli's awareness and responsiveness.

Lisa was instrumental in so many of the first experiences for Eli, such as being taken for a pram ride outdoors, visiting the park, her first hand painting and tentative visits to children's farms and the seaside which were all major steps in her development.

"This period of weekly visits for a number of years were the highlight of our lives and helped transform our view of our daughter and her potential. She became a social person with responsiveness and initiative behaviours and a burgeoning personality.

"It was due to the direct involvement and interaction with Lisa that our daughter made such steady progress in her cognitive awareness and responsiveness to people."

If you would like to support Noah's Ark's Christmas Appeal, visit www.noahsarkhospice.org.uk or call 020 8449 8877.

Your £25 donation could pay for a session of respite care from one of the charity's specialist carers and help a family like Michael's.

The Tiger Who Came To Tea

ONCE again, artsdepot is staging an alternative Christmas production to the traditional pantomime.

Last year it was The Gruffalo, and this year the venue in Tally Ho Corner, North Finchley, is putting on children's favourite The Tiger Who Came To Tea.

Judith Kerr wrote and illustrated her award-winning book 45 years ago – and it is still as popular with children today as it ever was.

David Wood's adaptation stays faithful to the popular story of Sophie, her mum and dad who are eaten out of house and home by a tea-guzzling tiger.

The show, which is being performed from Tuesday, December 3 until Sunday, January 5, 2014, is full of magic, sing-along songs and clumsy chaos.

Tickets cost £12.50-£14 (restricted view £8) with group passes for four people costing £46.

To book, visit www.artsdepot.co.uk or call the box office on 020 8369 5454.

The Night Before Christmas

TWAS the night before Christmas, and all through the house, nothing was stirring, not even a mouse.

That's how the classic festive story begins. Except in the production at artsdepot next week, Emily is too excited to sleep, while in the corner a little mouse called Eddie can't understand why only humans are allowed to get presents.

Produced by Big Wooden Horse, this fun-filled festive show sees the audience join Eddie on his journey to find Father Christmas and find out exactly why mice don't get presents.

Along the way he dodges the family cat, gets directions from a cowardly robot and is given some unexpected advice from the magical fairy.

From the creators of the hit shows Don't Let the Pigeon Drive the Bus! and Aliens Love Underpants, The Night Before Christmas is suitable for ages three and above.

It is being performed at the venue in Tally Ho Corner, North Finchley, at various times on Saturday, November 30 and Sunday, December 1, with tickets costing £9 (restricted view £8).

Book online at www.artsdepot.co.uk or call the box office on 020 8369 5454.

IF one production of The Night Before Christmas isn't enough, then fear not, as Chickenshed Theatre is also staging a version of the classic story.

The action – as the name suggests – takes place on Christmas Eve and, too excited to sleep, the children tear into their huge sack of presents.

But, shock, horror, the gifts aren't for them.

So, before Christmas Day arrives, they must journey to magical faraway lands to return the gifts to The Snow Queen, Ebenezer Scrooge and Cinderella's Ugly Sisters – learning the true meaning of Christmas along the way.

The popular show has been revived for Chickenshed in a completely fresh and festive way, with songs, dance and memorable characters aplenty in this production suitable for ages five and above.

The Night Before Christmas is being performed at the venue in Chase Side, Southgate, from Wednesday, November 27 to Saturday, January 11, 2014.

Tickets cost £11-£20 and to book visit www.chickenshed.org.uk or call the box office on 020 8292 9222.

Twice the fun: The Night Before Christmas is coming to artsdepot, left, and Chickenshed

Flo White & Seven Dawgs

LIVING in a Hertfordshire mansion with a popstar stepmother, Snow White's life should be perfect.

But stepmum Belladonna treats Snow White like dirt. And her only escape from this "dawg's life" is when she sneaks out of the house with her pal Muddles to enter rap battles under the name "Flo White".

Meanwhile a student prince returns from university with a new street style and an urge to find a royal rapper to pump it up in the palace.

When the Magic Mirror tells Belladonna

she is no longer the hottest act in the land and she discovers that it is her own stepdaughter who threatens her crown, she is livid, and plots to have her competition removed – permanently.

Packed with the great characters, exciting plot, laughs, rap, and exuberant street dance, Flo White And The Seven Dawgs is a great family show.

It takes place at The Dugdale Centre in London Road, Enfield Town, from December 14 to January 5, 2014.

Tickets cost £15/£10 concessions (online £14/£9), with side seats £13/£8 (online £12/£7) from the box office on 020 8807 6680 or www.millfieldtheatre.co.uk

Snow White

WHAT do you get if you cross five kilograms of multicoloured glitter, 45 metres of fairy lights, a football pitch-sized amount of fabric, a cast of 29, some truly terrible jokes and a whole lot more?

This year, Jordan Productions is bringing the most magical fairytale of them all to life at the theatre in Wylyotts Place, Potters Bar – but how do they do it?

Nine actors, 12 dancers, eight panto babes, four musicians, one director, one company manager, three dressers, one make-up artist, and 16 technicians are needed to pull off just one show

Performances take place until January 5, 2014, with tickets costing £13.50-£17 from the box office on 01707 645 005 or at www.tickets.wylyottstheatre.co.uk
